Construction Consulting Services

Value-added services unique to the surety market

Who we are

Our Liberty Mutual Surety Construction Consulting Services (CCS) team possesses a range of experiences in accounting, construction, engineering, investment banking, legal report writing, systems, and valuation.

What we do

CCS and underwriters work with contractors and producers to provide consultative services, at no cost. CCS assesses contractors, using a best-practice focus, regardless of revenue-base size and/or construction specialty.

How we do it

Our contractor engagement efforts are geared toward enhancing operational effectiveness with a goal of improving construction outcomes. For example, if a contractor wants to grow the business, identify areas of opportunity to improve profitability, advance internal processes and/or address other operational elements, CCS can help.

Services are tailored to the specific contractor (as requested), in alignment with its interests. The services can range from a brief consulting call to discuss specific subject(s) with the contractor up to a comprehensive business assessment. The scope of service may include one, all, or a selected combination of the following business areas:

- Cash flow analysis and forecasting
- Company profitability
- Cost-to-complete process
- Estimating/preconstruction process
- Ownership/management oversight
- Project management/operations supervision
- Risk management process, including subcontractor prequalification
- Specific project scenarios
- System integration, capabilities, and reporting
